1. The first part of the document is a title page. It contains the title of the report, the author's name, and the date of the report. The title is "The Effect of the New Tax Law on the Investment Decision". The author is "John Doe". The date is "January 1, 1960".

2. The second part of the document is an abstract. It is a brief summary of the main findings of the report. It states that the new tax law has a significant effect on the investment decision, and that the effect is positive.

3. The third part of the document is the introduction. It provides a background on the investment decision and the new tax law. It also states the purpose of the report, which is to analyze the effect of the new tax law on the investment decision.

4. The fourth part of the document is the literature review. It discusses the existing literature on the investment decision and the new tax law. It identifies the gaps in the literature and the need for the current study.

5. The fifth part of the document is the methodology. It describes the research design, the data sources, and the statistical methods used in the study.

6. The sixth part of the document is the results. It presents the findings of the study, including the effect of the new tax law on the investment decision. It also includes tables and figures to illustrate the results.

7. The seventh part of the document is the conclusion. It summarizes the main findings of the study and provides recommendations for future research.

8. The eighth part of the document is the references. It lists the sources of information used in the study, including books, articles, and reports.

9. The ninth part of the document is the appendix. It contains additional information that is not included in the main body of the report, such as raw data and detailed calculations.

10. The tenth part of the document is the index. It provides a list of the topics covered in the report, along with the page numbers where they can be found.
